

Declaration of Commitment to the “European Charter for Researchers” and the “Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers”.

The Centre de Recherche Public – Gabriel Lippmann hereby declares its commitment to the principles laid down in the “European Charter for Researchers” and the “Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers”.

Since its foundation, the CRP-Gabriel Lippmann has always attached a prime importance to its human resources policy, and has had at heart to provide its personnel with a fair and fulfilling working environment.

Hence, when the centre’s Board of Administration voted on 14th October 2008 in favour of the adoption of the « Charter » and the « Code », it was felt that several of the recommended guidelines were already common practice at the centre. It was however deemed preferable to await that most of the principles and requirements had already been met before issuing a formal statement.

Beyond approving the « Charter » and the « Code », the centre can presently declare that it will endeavour to implement the “Human Resources Strategy for Researchers” within the framework of its current performance contract.

Belvaux, 6th October 2011

Fernand Reinig
Managing director of the Centre de Recherche Public - Gabriel Lippmann